Travel Broadens the mind

Have you ever had itchy feet? I bet you have. Many people dream of travelling around the world. Why do they want it? Probably because travelling gives them incredible feelings which are engrained in their memory for the rest of their lives.

To my mind, travelling can't be pointless. Surely, some people prefer to save up for more necessary things like phones, laptops, etc. Nevertheless, nothing can be compared to the experience travelling gives you. Additionally, visiting a different environment can change a person. For instance, some people can't realise particular things until they learn how others live and behave in various situations.

To sum up, don't miss out a chance to travel. One day you will recall those adventurous days and be glad you have them.
